

TWO MORE ARRESTS IN MORRISON CASE

in the Esllus home, but he was nowhere in sight when the doctor entered. Less than an hour after Hillstrom's arrival Appiequist left the house and has not been heard from since.

Appiequist and Hillstrom had been friends for some months at least. They are said to have been working in Park City together. Some weeks ago Appiequist came to the Esllus home in Murray with Hillstrom. The latter had been stopping at the Hillstrom place intermittently for about seven months. He told those in the Esllus household that Appiequist was a friend with whom he had worked in Park City. After that Appiequist was a frequent visitor at the Esllus home.

Slept Together.

On last Friday Appiequist and Hillstrom went to the Esllus home. The two slept on a folding cot in one of the rooms of the house. They remained there all day Saturday and were still there when the Esllus boys left for Salt Lake Saturday evening. When the Esllus boys returned after the theater, Appiequist was in bed. He had reached home, it developed, shortly before 1 o'clock. Where he had been the Esllus family professed not to know. They said he must have gone out early in the evening, but none saw him leave the house. Soon after the Esllus boys returned from Salt Lake Hillstrom was brought in wounded. Within an hour Appiequist dressed and left the house, after having talked quietly with Hillstrom.

Members of the Esllus family had known Hillstrom for a long time, two of the boys having met him in San Pedro some years ago. He came to the home of the Esllus family for the first time on June 23 of last year. He said he had been working as a machinist in Park City. Since that time he has worked very little, and has spent a great deal of his time at the Esllus home.

Second Man Taken.

in all essential details by the three men whom he said were his companions at the theater. However, the saloon man on whom Erickson relied told the officers that he was positive that he did not see Erickson in his saloon on Saturday night, though he saw and talked to the other three. He said Erickson was in his place on Friday night, but not on Saturday. The Esllus boys produced three seat checks for the Utah theater dated Saturday night, but failed to find the fourth. The seats were numbered 7, 9 and 10, number 8 being missing. An effort to find the employee of the lumber company whom Erickson says saw him at the theater proved futile.

At the county jail Erickson and Hillstrom were permitted to see each other. Erickson spoke in Swedish to Hillstrom, after which Hillstrom said that Erickson was not with him on Saturday night.

Born in Sweden.

Further than this Hillstrom volunteered no statement and it was with difficulty that the officers obtained any answers to their questions. He told the officers he was born in Sweden and had not been naturalized. He said he had been in America several years and had worked as a machinist.

"I was in a fuss over a girl," he said when urged to tell how he came to be wounded, "and I got shot."

"I don't want to say where it occurred," he added.

He said that Appiequist was not with him when the shooting occurred. He said he had ridden to the doctor's residence on a street car. The police are of the opinion that Appiequist took him to the doctor's home.

A determined effort is being made to find Appiequist. Telegrams were sent broadcast last night by the police and they will be followed by circulars containing the picture and description of the man.

The police yesterday found that a young woman named Hilda Erickson, sister of Robert Erickson and niece of the Esllus boys, is employed as a domestic at 1252 East South Temple street. According to the police, Hillstrom had been paying her attention and had called on her several times there. The name, "Hilda," occurred in a note found on Hillstrom, signed "Otto," a copy of which was published in The Tribune yesterday morning.

LIVES OF SUSPECTS ARE INVESTIGATED

Otto Appiequist parted company with Joe Hillstrom at the Esllus home in Murray at about 2 o'clock on Monday morn-

CALLS FOR HELP ARE QUICKLY ANSWERED

Throughout the day and the night that followed the officers scanned the sea for passing craft and the operator worked heroically to restore his wireless outfit. Meantime steamers that had picked up the first appeal for help were searching for the distressed craft. A heavy vapor caused by the action of the intense cold on the water handicapped the searchers and it was a fisherman on Port Maitland shore who first made out the Cobequid as the vapor rose late this afternoon and revealed the liner on the dreaded Trinity.

Darkness was gathering fast when the rescue began, but the seamen from the coastal steamers knew the rock and shoals as well as they did their own front yards ashore and they went at the work before them with confidence.

Less than five hours later those who had faced death for two days were being warmed and fed at the hotels here.

Suffered From Cold.

All, however, had suffered from the intense cold. Most of them were frost-bitten and everyone showed the effects of exposure to zero weather. When the rescue ships reached docks here, many of their passengers had to be carried to the hotel. For the thirty-six hours after the vessel struck seas broke over her continuously and she was coated with ice.

Ennumbed with cold and dazed by their long ordeal, few of the rescued could give an intelligent account of their experiences tonight. One of the officers of the Cobequid said:

"The ship struck at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning while we were trying to locate the lightship off the Lurcher shoal. In the blinding snowstorm which prevailed we overshot the mark and brought up on the southeast end of Trinity ledge.

"It was low tide and when it rose it forced us farther up on the shoal. The steamer began to pound heavily and in a few minutes the engine room was filled with water. This stopped the dynamos, putting the lighting system and wireless apparatus out of commission.

gan to break over the ship all hands were ordered below, where they huddled in the cabins. It was feared that the hull would part. Daylight and the knowledge that their appeal for help had been heard gave renewed hope, but the position of the ship grew more dangerous hourly. Up to noon the gale showed no signs of subsiding. The bridge, chart-house, companionways and everything movable on deck, including all but four lifeboats, were washed away.

Various expedients to prevent suffering from cold were adopted. Fires were kindled in an iron bucket, in which holes had been cut to afford a draft. This crude utensil was used to heat water and make tea. One of the crew suffered a broken arm, but this was the only accident.
